[1] IFA communicates with its membership in many ways including via email and through its Divisional structure. These emails contain content including but not limited to important industry news, legislative changes both State and Federal, work referrals, newsletters & networking events including meetings, social & sporting events and conferences. Occasionally the Association publishes event details including photographs on the Association's website, and in its newsletters, brochures or industry magazines & publications.

[2] The IFA Printed Membership Directory is distributed to third parties at the discretion of IFA including current members of IFA, attendees & participants at trade shows, recipients of the Interior Fitout Magazine and other interested parties.

[3] Lists are sent to IFA Divisions, current IFA members, suppliers, promoters, sponsors, advertisers, and third parties seeking to establish a working relationship with IFA members. Details may be used for distribution, advertising, marketing & publicity purposes.
